STATE OF MAINE.

OFFICE OF SECRETARY OF STATE, Augusta, March 1, 1866.

CIRCULAR.

THE Act of the 22d of February last, providing pensions for certain classes of disabled soldiers and the widows and minor children of those deceased of the War of 1861, will necessarily impose upon the State Department duties somewhat analagous to those of the Pension Bureau at Washington, though of a comparatively limited character. Considerable time will therefore be required by the Council, in whom is vested the supervision of this new department of business, in determining the mode of procedure and preparing the requisite blanks therefor.

Early in the ensuing May session of that Honorable body, forms and regulations, with a copy of the law, will be promulgated.

Applicants under this statute, who are, or may be, in the receipt of a pension from the United States Government, will not require the assistance of agents or attorneys in procuring or presenting their claims for the State pension.

Despatches to the Evening Times.

Chief Justice Chase and Martial Law---Later from Europe.

NEW YORK, May 7.

The Herald's special Washington despatch says:

Gen. Sickles and staff have arrived at Washington, to confer concerning the appointment to the lieguu, which it is said he will decline.

The Tribune's special Washington despatch says:

The Comptroller of the Currency makes a statement showing the actual receipts for the current fiscal year up to April 14, which are $410,041,242, and at the same ratio for the next three months will amount to for the year $540,000,000, to which may be added $20,000,000 for income tax. Increased taxes and compromises from the Southern States will be received next year, and Mr. Clark thereupon estimates the next year's revenue will leave the government a balance after its expenses of $240,000,000.

The Times says Washington claims that the President is not committed in favor of the Colorado bill, and believes he will veto it on grounds of inadequate population.

Chief Justice Chase declines to preside at the United States district court at Norfolk which commenced Monday, assured that martial law is abrogated in Virginia.

It is understood the President will soon issue a proclamation abrogating martial law in the districts where the rebellion had been declared to cease to exist.

HALIFAX, May 7.

The steamship China arrived at Halifax this morning, bringing two days later news.

The steamship Peparonetes has arrived out with the passengers of the steamship Washington, having overtaken the latter steamer disabled and under sale.

Steamships Fulton, City of Dublin, Scotland and Cuba have arrived out.

2d Despatch---It is said that Austria has definitely determined upon adopting energetic military measures in Venetia.

The reformation bill has passed the House of Commons by a majority of five.

The German news is conflicting. There is considerable uneasiness as to the relations between Austria and Italy, but the Italian government denies having any warlike intentions.

FORTRESS MONROE, May 5.

A casement has been assigned Mrs. Davis, and she is allowed free intercourse with her husband during the day.

The British brig Victory, wrecked near Cape Henry recently, has been raised and towed into Norfolk.

NEW YORK, May 7.

The steamers Virigo and Perol, from Savannah 3d, have arrived.

The Savannah Daily News of the 3d inst., says:

The trial of J. W. Duncan for alleged cruelty to several prisoners at Andersonville has been brought to a close, and the commission has determined upon findings and sentence, but which will not be made public until passed upon by the Department Commander.

NEW YORK, May. 7.

A report from the hospital ship at quarantine to-day states that one new case of cholera occurred on Saturday, and five new cases yesterday from the Virginia. There are now 112 cases in the hospital.

WASHINGTON, May 7.

The President has approved the bill providing that the active list of the pay corp of the navy shall consist of 80 Paymasters, 40 Passed Assistant Paymasters, and 30 Assistant Paymasters.

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.

Probst, the murderer, in his confession, says:

"After having murdered the boy, the sight of the blood of the boy produced in me a devilish bloodthirsty feeling and I determined to kill the whole family."

He disposed of the body of the boy as described before, and then murdered all the family, decoying them into the barn. He got very little money, although expecting to get considerable. He dared not confess before, being afraid the people would tear him to pieces.

The rights and power of Congress to impose conditions upon the late rebel States is ably argued against the President's assertion that they have the constitutional right to be represented without conditions---by a distinguished writer in the Providence Journal, endorsed by the editor. He says, in speaking of the rebellion:

"Against its will and consent the Federal Government suddenly found itself confronted, not by a mere insurrection of citizens to oppose the execution of its laws but by a gigantic rebellion of a large number of its States, setting themselves up as an independent nation. The Constitution provides for no such case," shouted the abettors of the rebellion, "and it gives no power to the General Government to coerce a State."

This was true; but Congress finding no clause in the Constitution to compel it to yield to a theory which would reduce the National Government to a simple partnership at will, hesitated not to pass such laws as were required to enable the Executive to suppress the rebellion. Who will pretend that this action of Congress was unconstitutional?

And now, the rebellion over, the government finds itself confronted by the same rebel States---rebels no longer only because we have wrested their weapons from their hands---demanding an instant and unconditional restitution to all their former political rights as States in the Union. This, too, is a case, just as was the rebellion itself, unprovided for by the Constitution; and the same disloyalists who shouted in 1861 that "the Constitution gives no power to coerce a State," are now shouting in 1866 that "the Constitution gives no power to impose conditions on the admission of rebel States after they have been subdued."

It seems clear that if Congress could constitutionally deal with the rebellion in 1861, it can constitutionally deal with the necessary consequences of that rebellion in 1866. Among those consequences are the two great duties now imposed upon it: Protection of the Unity of the Nation against the Pretended Right of Secession, and Protection of the Freedmen, whom the war has made the nation's wards.

The power of Congress to create proper guarantees against a future dismemberment of the nation, as a precedent to the admission of the rebel States, when viewed in the light of well settled principles of interpretation, will be clearly seen to be a constitutional power. A number of powers that have been habitually exercised by the Federal Government, and whose constitutionality has been judicially established are nowhere mentioned in the Constitution, but have been deduced from it by implication.

RESOURCES OF CANADA. Throwing out of account the prospective mines of gold, the annual production of coal, and the claim of oil wells not yet satisfactorily developed, the real solid wealth of Canada is based upon it. cereals and its immense forests, is worthy of attention. Last year over 25,000,000 bushels of wheat were harvested, 12,000,000 bushels of peas, 40,000,000 bushels of oats, over 1,500,000 tons of hay, 12,000,000 bushels of buck wheat, 28,000,000 bushels of potatoes, and 10,000,000 bushels of turnips.---Canada also produced 30,000,000 pounds of beef, sheared 5,500,000 pounds of wool, and made 45,000,000 pounds of butter. The number of milch cows, horses, sheep and pigs is considerably over two millions. Lower Canada alone has over 2000 saw mills and in one year cut nearly 800,000,000 feet of lumber. The coast line from the Gulf of St Lawrence to Lake Superior is over 2000 miles, and there are now over 2000 miles of railroad traversing the country in various directions. The population of Canada liable to do military duty is about half a million, the enrolled militia 90,000, volunteers 30,000. There are 300 newspapers, and 800 schools educating 60,000 children.

The Paris correspondence of the New Orleans Picayune says the French Emperor's heir speaks already English, German and French; he is thoroughly drilled as a soldier; he is well trained in the gymnasium; he rides, fences, swims and rows well; he is making good progress in Greek, Latin and the mathematics; he is a tolerable shot with the fowling piece. His father widely pays particular attention to the education of the body, which assures the first of earthly blessings---which is no inconsiderable step towards the possession of talents.

The government and people of Nova Scotia are honoring the memory of Dr. Slayter, the physician who lost his life by cholera while devotedly serving on board the plague steamer England. The House of Assembly has unanimously voted the sum of two thousand dollars to the widow, and the people propose to raise a monument near the scene of his labors.

The "Athenæum" says the committee who have the charge of the completion of Cologne Cathedral, have applied to the King of Prussia for permission to establish a lottery to secure funds for the purpose. A lottery for nine years, it is computed, will furnish sufficient sums to complete the great work, which has been unfinished for centuries. During the past year the receipts have amounted to $250,000, of which $170,000 were the result of the lottery, and $80,000 were the gift of the Government. The lottery, if continued, is expected to yield $250,000.

It is estimated that the wool crop of Michigan will be 12,000,000 pounds this year. It was only 2,000,000 in 1850.

An Invaluable Spring Medicine. DR. J. W. POLAND'S HUMOR DOCTOR.

This excellent medicinal remedy was first prepared by Dr. P. in 1847, and was then employed with great success in expelling humors from the blood but in 1858, a medical friend, who was quite celebrated as a physician, requested him to treat some of humors suggested some important improvement, which were adopted, and which have made it (so the people say) the very best remedy for all kinds of humors known to "the faculty." This preparation is composed wholly of vegetables, among which are Sarsapari la, Yellow Dock, Burdock, Noble Pine, Mandrake, Senna and Bloodroot. Suffice it to say, the "Doctor" is used in hundreds of families as a spo ral medicine! Unlike many other popular remedies, it is very grateful to the taste
